

Erratum

Erratum to: Detection and correction of incomplete duplicate 24-hour urine collections – theory and practical evidence

Raymond W Wulkan<sup>*1</sup>, Martin van der Horst<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Clinical Chemistry Laboratory, Maasstad Hospital, Rotterdam, The Netherlands

<sup>2</sup>Clinical Chemistry Laboratory, Treant Care Group, Scheper Hospital Location, Emmen, The Netherlands

*Corresponding author: WulkanR@maasstadziekenhuis.nl

This is a correction of Biochem Med (Zagreb) 2021;31(1):010706, DOI: <https://doi.org/10.11613/BM.2021.010706>.

Since the publication of the article, the authors have noticed some errors: on page 5, right column, under the heading Case 3, the concentrations of normetanephrine should be in  $\mu\text{mol}/24\text{h}$  instead of  $\text{mmol}/24\text{h}$ ; and on page 6, left column, under the heading of Case 6, the concentrations of met- aphanine should be in  $\mu\text{mol}/24\text{h}$  instead of  $\text{mmol}/24\text{h}$ . We apologize to the authors for any inconvenience caused to the readers.